- Prototype and sample production
- The production of the ordered lot starts only once the sample produced by the vendor is up to the mark.
- In-house quality checking
- Our quality controllers ensure that quality is maintained throughout production process. The sample is sent to us for due verification.

Client's approval

Once the product satisfies us, we send it to the client for their final approval. If any modification is needed, we again send it back to the vendor and all the changes are carried out to meet the exact specification.

Final Inspection

After the completion of the manufacturing process, the product is thoroughly checked. While the goods are being packaged, quality controllers re-inspect randomly, selecting packages from the final shipment.
